    Sorry! Learning the protocol! one thing I've done when starting a new job is to create a research playbook that outlines different methods. That has helped with my internal proposals and with educating on different methods and where to use them.

11:20:33 From Brandon E.B. Ward to Everyone:

    For me it's never been about wanting to do a specific type of study, rather, unearthing what problems my clients need to have solved, then picking the proper research methods.

11:20:41 From Brandon E.B. Ward to Everyone:

    Otherwise it's a solution in search of a problem

11:21:08 From Kristin A. to UX Research and Strategy(Direct Message):

    Apologies, sent out just to the host! Unfortunately I wasnt able to attend earlier-- will this session be available as a recording?

11:21:16 From Vibha Bhagwat to Everyone:

    @brandon E.B. Well said

11:21:20 From Nina Mcphaul to Everyone:

    ditto on what Michaela is saying, contract work will give you exposure to so many companies and methods

11:21:30 From Brandon E.B. Ward to Everyone:

    The one time I recall just wanting to do a study for the sake of doing the study was my first Journey Map, so I found a problem internal to our company and did the JM for THAT, but I didn't charge anyone for that work.

11:21:38 From UX Research and Strategy to Kristin A.(Direct Message):

    Kristin, we don't record the networking - we can't record in the breakout rooms 🙁

11:23:21 From Megha Bhushan to UX Research and Strategy(Direct Message):

    Hi, I am looking for a mentor since I am just starting off in this field. I am returning to the workforce after a big gap of 15 yrs! Would you be able to help out? 🙂 If there a way we can connect one-one?

11:23:36 From Elvina Shagvaleyeva to Everyone:

    Brandon, I completely agree with what you're saying, but I guess what people here are talking about is where to look for opportunities to get more experience on a specific method

11:23:49 From Michaela Mora to Everyone:

    Glad to connect: https://www.linkedin.com/in/michaelamora/

11:24:00 From Edward Amezquita to Everyone:

11:25:53 From Damasco Innovations to Everyone:

    Thank you all for the event. Very helpful meeting and learning!

11:25:55 From Brandon E.B. Ward to Everyone:
    Do you WANT to learn SQL?
11:26:16 From Brandon E.B. Ward to Everyone:
    If the answer to any of these is NO, then that's not the right job/role for you, and that's okay.
11:26:21 From UX Research and Strategy to Everyone:
    Amen Brandon!
11:26:27 From Fayola Ama to Everyone:
    Great session! Really enjoyed and learned a lot from everyone. Thanks! Let's do this again!

11:29:34 From Jon Clancy to Everyone:
    Our company listed that they wanted people to be comfortable in R and SPSS, but did not have any licenses for SPSS, and nobody uses R. There is a tendency to copy/paste UXR JD's. I wouldn't expect a lot of analysis to happen outside of very big tech with established Quant practice
11:29:37 From Bobbi Martin to Everyone:
    To be honest, I've looked at various UXR positions to find an idea out to continue my career in the field. The amount of diversity in the requirements is crazy.
11:30:55 From Heather Sterman to Everyone:
    I have to run, but thank you all for a wonderful session!
11:31:16 From Bobbi Martin to Everyone:
